

Raji's stomach was now very full, but he was greedy as well as foolish. So he went on to the third house.

This house belonged to the village artist. Behind the house stood a large tub of indigo dye. Raji thought the tub might be full of tasty treats, so he jumped in.

The tub was deep, and Raji swam around for some time before he was able to climb out and run back to the jungle.

indigo a dark violet-blue color